10:30-11:30am	Session 2A: Trust in transition Speaker: Daniel Smedley, CTA, Sladen Legal Trusts are in a period of transition. Older deeds are meeting contemporary governance expectations, courts are testing how ownership is characterised in real life, and revenue authorities are paying closer attention to timing and purpose. This session focuses on what that transition means for day-to-day drafting, administration and advice. Who really owns what, and how to modernise older deeds prudently, focusing on practical characterisation of beneficial ownership, when a court-approved update is appropriate, and how to avoid creating a substantively different arrangement. Exercising trustee discretions without process issues or fettering, showing genuine consideration of relevant beneficiaries, recording reasons at the right level, managing conflicts, and avoiding drafting or conduct that limits future choices. Present entitlement, timing and disclaimers, making resolutions effective at the right time, aligning streaming with the paperwork and cash flows, and recognising the limits of after-the-event disclaimers. Integrity rules now shaping trust planning, assessing purpose and commercial rationale, identifying arrangements that attract scrutiny, documenting the decision path, and selecting safer, commercially grounded alternatives.
